Literary Review

December 2012

Title	Publication	Date	Overview
Crohn's disease in adults and children	Nursing Times Vol 108 No 50 page 19	11th Dec 2012	Introducing the recently published NICE guidelines providing information to clinicians on the latest evidence based clinical and cost-effective care pathways for patients with Crohn's disease
End-of-life care for people with urological cancer	Nursing Times Vol 108 No 50 page 24-25	11th Dec 2012	A summary of the key findings of a report created by the National End-of-Life Care Intelligence Network looking at differences in where people with urological cancers die, depending on the type of cancer they have and other factors such as age, sex and socioeconomic status.
What the patient needs to know before stoma siting: an overview	British Journal of nursing Vol 21 No 22 page 1304 - 1308	13th Dec 2012	This article looks at the steps taken by the stoma care nurse in preparing the patient for stoma formation. Pre-operative preparation is hugely beneficial to those who receive it, through both information and holistic care.
Managing high-output stomas	British Journal of nursing Vol 21 No 22 page 1309 - 1311	13th Dec 2012	Rebecca Slater reviews recently published education programme made up of 3 working modules to help understanding of both the nutritional management and the nursing management of appliance changes to aid the nursing care they deliver to their patients.
Strategies to reduce treatment costs of peristomal skin complications	British Journal of nursing Vol 21 No 22 page 1312 - 1315	13th Dec 2012	Early detection of peristomal skin complications, combined with the use of a correctly fitted and appropriate pouching system, can reduce treatment costs. A high priority should be given to ensuring resources are available to provide education, guidance and assistance to people with a stoma.
